Woke up to familiar skyline
Who would have thought that we were so blind?
Turn our backs and just move on now Ignoring the days and forgetting the nights She says, "I have now been here for way too long. And though I love you I must move on." Ignoring the signs, he whispers her name. Cut out her voice, It makes him insane
There is means to the ends anymore
And there is a promise that I didn't keep

But what did you really want me to be?
Sit in the dark now watching her go Sit in the dark now, drinking alone He says, "She is a painting lonely and grey. And though I love you you've led me astray."
Ignoring the signs, he whispers her name. Cut out her voice, it makes him insane.
There is no means to the ends anymore
