

Bluebells "I'm Falling"

Visit "I'm Falling" on MotoLyrics.com

Your sweating now
But wait till the winter comes around
It won't be sweat
That pours from you brow
But the cold tears of the hard driven rain

Last night when you were crying
How I wished that I was dying
Saying silly things that made no sense at all
Tried to sort out the problems
But there were too many of them
You say you love me through my rise and fall

I'm falling down again
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down

So I asked her do you need a shield
From the weapons the elements wield
As all the hate comes pouring down

I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down

Last night when you were crying
How I wished that I was dying
I need you to help me tow the line
Tried to sort out the problems
There were too many of them
And I don't want to pay the price with my pride

I'm falling down again
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again

Falling on down
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down

I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down
I been falling on down again
I been falling on down again
Falling on down

I should have known better than
These things just happen I guess
I should have known better than
These things just happen I guess

I should have known better than
These things just happen I guess
I should better than, I should better
These things just happen I guess
You know they can now

I should have known better than
These things, these things just happen I guess
I should have known better
I should have known better

Visit Bluebells page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.