The pieces fell apart
Your friends have gone astray
The person in the mirror seems so cold and far away
I've lost my only friend I made so long ago
When the world just seemed so simple
And the time just seemed to go
But your troubles just began

Put everything on hold Give yourself a chance to breathe Let the panic settle in but hold the trembling in your knees
You first begin to weigh all the choices in the end
Has your time got you where you wanted

And I'll keep walking, dreaming bout the places I will go
And feel happy for that day
And I'll keep walking, spite the road blocks slowing up my pace
I want to get so far away

It seems you lost yourself in the years to come and pass

Watching dreams all disappear like a phoenix from the ash
It seems you did your best
But your best has kept you fallin through the cracks
And you begin to fold waiting for the world to put you where you want Cause the pieces fell apart
Your friends have gone astray
Will the person in the mirror even make it through the day

I know that I'll keep walking, dreaming bout the places I will go
And feel happy for that day
And I'll keep walking, spite the road blocks slowing up
my pace
I want to get so far away

And I'll keep walking, dreaming bout the places I will go
And feel happy for that day
And I'll keep walking, dreaming bout the places I will go
