You say your way is the best way
Well how many times
Have I feel for that line?
But I don't have answers
Or say 'em in time

One day we shall have our swordplay
And rather than hide
Or not talk for a night
I might recognise
The true size of my pride

And with a little persuasion or an emotional bribe
I could re-consider and take your side
With a little persuasion, with a little finesse
I'll comply with any lie you're happy to express

All out, drenched amidst the fall out
Oh licking our wounds, keeping the score
The only contacts we have anymore
Fighting, sparks that keep igniting
Before all negotiations break down
I'll get my envoys to put it around that

With a little persuasion or an emotional bribe
I could re-consider and take your side
With a little persuasion, with a little finesse
I'll comply with any lie you're happy to express

We're hooked on confrontation
We both know that, it keeps us on our toes
With a little persuasion or an emotional bribe
I could re-consider and take your side

With a little persuasion, with a little finesse
I'll comply with any lie you're happy to express (x2)
