Because I know that a person can't live like in their favorite movie
Whenever someone falls in love
I may seek out my own story a little too much Before my eyes you smile a smile that seems mysterious, you and I are...

We happened upon each other even though I had no
map
This is me wanting to quietly trust love, it reaches to my tears
You're in range of me, there's no replacement for you
The mark of tonight

We were born in different cities, and we spent our days different But unexpectedly, we hum the same song
The miracles just pile up, and we dream the same dream right now
The future is faint
But we go well together, and that's good But my cheeks are hot, even though I don't have a fever
I feel all of the winds, everywhere
I'm so close to you that I seem to wipe your sadness away
I don't want to leave you
The mark of tonight

Before my eyes you smile a smile that seems
mysterious, you and I are...

We happened upon each other even though I had no
This is me wanting to quietly trust love, it reaches to my
You're in range of me, there's no replacement for you
The mark of tonight

I arrived here, even though I had no map
There, you and the flowers both were trembling

It's not a particularly special love
But there's no replacmenet for you, the mark of tonight
