These words, they come from Heaven
These words, they come from Heaven

Don't be confused, you're back in time again
It's funny but it's true

They state your case, praise your name
And the last place where you lived without a trace
Except that face that shone for you
That faith belonged to you

It saw you through again, those eyes of Danish blue
Set in pain, we all thought you were so brave
When they laughed, called you insane
But now they're saying they were true

Yes, now they're saying, now they're saying
These words came from Heaven
These words came from Heaven

These words, they come from Heaven
These words, they come from Heaven

I'm happy for you, we've got to laugh again
'Cos when they thought they had you
Stretched on racks, you refused to answer back
You sat still you never cracked
Till they backed down in front of truth

And now they're saying, now they say that
These words came from Heaven
These words came from Heaven
Straight to you

These words, they come from Heaven
These words are falling down from Heaven
These words, they come from Heaven
These words are coming down from Heaven

These words, they come from Heaven
These words are falling down from Heaven
These words, they come from Heaven
