As the page gets wider this song gets longer As the burden gets lighter the man become able There's a hole in my pocket Elijah - Elijah
A hole in my shoe - my skin hits the ground

It's all about living - giving and forgiving
Not about worry - "In a hurry?" - make things blurry Clear above the clouds all the time
"I'm going to have to see you some more times"

Dr. Jerome - love tub - doctor

You've created your boundaries - it's okay to explore them
Within the fences in your head
But if you stray outside you'll wind up dead
Tell me of your childhood Did you learn to take a shit right?
Did you always wear your pants too tight?

Was it insubordination?
An Oedipus relation?
Why'd you slay your daddy?
Why'd you total the caddy?
You've gone above the clouds - you've left the okay corral and now
I'm sitting in the lower - talking you down to the runway

Dr. Jerome - love tub - doctor

Although you feel much clearer - although you feel much lighter
Although you've pioneered those natives in those dark undiscovered lands inside your head are waiting to pounce on you It's the same thing with the spirit as the mental and physical - you're a fish out of water but still close enough to shore to be revived

When I snap my fingers you'll remove your clothes and climb into the tub with me...
