Why don't we both surrender before we both get burned?

So many shots fired, so many daggers thrown

Can you think of anything

We have learned from all this madness

Have we learned from all this strife?

Have we learned from all this business

With the gun and the knife?

I throw up my hands for you

And if you throw up your hands for me

What a wonderful world this could be, yeah

I throw up my hands, my hands for you

And if you throw up your hands for me

What a wonderful world this could be, be, be

I remember things you whispered and things you screamed

Does it all go up in flames?

So many bombs dropped, so many names called

Can't you see we've been living

In a world of pain from all this madness?

Can we end it all before?

This world is pulled all to pieces in a tug-of-war

I fall to my knees for you

And if you fall to your knees for me

What a wonderful world this could be, yeah

I fall to my knees, my knees for you

And if you fall to your knees for me

What a wonderful world this could be, yeah

Oh, let's both make a mutual surrender

Oh, let's both make a mutual surrender

Why don't we both surrender

Here before we both get burned?

With all the shots fired and all the daggers thrown

There's got to be something

We can learn from all this madness

Can we learn from all this strife?

Can we learn from all this business

With the gun and the knife?

I raise my white flag for you
And if you raise your white flag for me
What a wonderful world this could be, yeah
I raise my white flag, my flag for you
And if you raise your white flag for me
What a wonderful world this could be, yeah
I fall to my knees, my knees for you
And if you fall to your knees for me
What a wonderful world this could be, yeah
I throw up my hands, my hands for you
And if you throw up your hands for me
What a wonderful world this could be, yeah
I raise my white flag, my flag for you
And if you raise your white flag for me
What a wonderful world this could be [fade]
