Tasha was a stunning vision, painted eyes with such precision
Longer legs than any girl I know Swishing down the old kent road, with her hips on overload
Making sure the loneliness don't show

She was never of her gender categorically
She was never he though the boys at school were cruel

She was never of her gender categorically
She was never he though though this world could be so

She was never he for as long as I remember
She was never of her gender categorically
She was never he though this world could be so cruel
You would have to be a fool not to see

She was never he for as long as I remember
She was never of her gender categorically
She was never he though this world could be so cruel
You would have to be a fool not to see
That she was never...
