searching for my true love catching a glimmer in the distance a bright light gleaming in the darkness so radiant and beautiful is its glow so elegant and tantalizing is the sound it echoes drawing me closer to an immortal bliss drawing me closer with every breath that i muster sending chills of anticipation down my spine reaching out to touch my tear tracked cheek wiping away the tears of ages from my face whispering to me softly for only my ears to hear assuring me the end of my sadness is almost here taking me in and holding me tightly protecting me from the evils of my past life showering me with love and affection and sheltering me from the coldness of the world all the time reaching for the glimmer of light in the distance

i have found my one true love
