To find myself again,
The walls are closing in Everything I make seems to take Buried inside you,
Strangers I once knew,
When no one would take the blame
I put my trust in you, pushed as far as I go and for all reasons there's only one thing you should know Never mind the unseen, clouds fill my head Blind without truth in a word Watching over your steps Weakness sows its seed
And I still can't sleep
I'm insane underneath your breath,
Who was supposed to feel the shame
It doesn't feel the same As I feel no pain there's no choice better hear my voice I found escape through dreaming, have I been this before,
and then came the pouring rain feeling the reaching over me, my black sky wondering what ever could it be I try to hide away
There's no shelter to find I've felt this way before, so insecure
