If I packed my bags today
Would you still runaway with me
To a place where we could be together

Taking timeout from our lives
To talk about tomorrow
Where we'll be and what we're doing
Take in the sun
On the Californian run
We will escape tonight, tonight

If I packed my bags today
Would you still runaway with me
To a place where we could be together
Only taking what we need
Just you and me
Never looking back behind
Running from the signs

Oh baby tell me
Would you runaway with me?
Would you throw away those books?
Would you leave your life for mine?
Take a picture, take a look
Cause the years have passed in time
Since we were once so young
You know that life won't wait, it won't wait

If I packed my bags today
Would you still runaway with me
To a place where we could be together
Only taking what we need
Just you and me
Never looking back behind
Running from the signs

The clock's ticking in your head
It's so unclear but that's the way we like it
Just leave it all now, feeling so good tonight
I'll rescue you before you lose this world forever

If I packed my bags today

Would you still runaway with me
To a place where we could be together
Only taking what we need
Just you and me
Never looking back behind
Running from the signs

If I packed my bags today
Would you still runaway with me
To a place where we could be together
Only taking what we need
Just you and me
