We've walked this empty road
Trying to make it home
Just waiting for a chance to rearrange our lives once more
Forgetting all our past
So what we have will last
Let go of what we said that night you packed your
things and left
Why do you have to go?

You find it hard to breath
You wait for me to leave
So you are not alone with me
You find it hard to see
Just where we ought to be
But you are not alone with me

We've tried to many times
To stop these endless lies
But all we seem to know is how to turn our backs and go
Forgetting all our past
Why do you have to go?

You find it hard to breath
You wait for me to leave
So you are not alone with me
You find it hard to see
Just where we ought to be

And now I'm all alone... a man without a soul
Just ask me one more time to come back home
