You just came into my world
A little boy without a girl
You just smiled at me, I knew it was on

We spent weeks that were a blur
We made love so sweet and pure
Then I knew you were gone

Where's that man I'd come to know
With the heart I thought was gold?
You just turned me off and walked out the door

How could you just be so cold?
What a hard and heavy blow
Now I'm lying here, alone on the floor

Are you in another place
Or behind another face?
Where are you now?

Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space?
Where are you now?

I have searched inside my soul
For the reasons never told
And what bothers me is they know

You should have told me from the start
Instead of playing with my heart
But you left me here with nothing to hold

So I'm taking it easy
I cleared my head
I've cried me a river
Said some prayers

But I often wonder
When I'm in my bed
Where are you now

Are you in another place

Or behind another face?
Where are you now?

Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space?
Where are you now?

Are you in another place
Or behind another face?
Where are you now?

Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space?
Where are you now?

Are you in another place
Or behind another face?
Where are you now?

Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space?
Where are you now?
