Nothing is real
I see their shadows in the day
I hear the voices and they call my name
I know the demon by her eyes
The ice blue daggers stab
I see the liars with no face
They walk beside while they play their games
I know they're laughing at my fate
"there is no escaping" is what they say
I read the writing the on the wall
They leave their poison for me, it's not too far
They lead me further down the hall
The doors are open for me, it's not too far

Sunset.

It's getting harder just to see what is real,
This fucking nightmare I feel or what she sends when I wake
I can't tell if it's my Heart or the hate
I'm not sure what's OK
Are these friends that I see or something crueller for me?
It's all her

I cannot see what's left for me
Only the horror that comes to haunt the day
I cannot feel what's real in me
Just phantom pain for a heart decayed

I will live forever among these mirrored walls
I will pull the curtain from where my tormentor calls
I'll stalk the pale faces whose brought me to my knees
I'll grasp her thin white neck as she laughs at me
