Christopher Street was busy tonight
When I made my way back home
One of these nights I'll turn on the Light like that taxi by the payphone
Well I've been here a week but it feels Like more and God knows how Long I'll last
I picked up the mail from the Hallway floor and I'm finally
Making peace with the past
Most of my friends are busy tonight
Just getting their kids upstairs
How did our lives change so fast
You just never know what's up
The road ahead

Sheridan Square was crazy today
When I took the train uptown
It started to snow but I just didn't care
'Cause I never dreamed I'd be
Broadway bound

Now Christopher Street has
Quieted down
Seems even New York needs
To sleep sometimes
One of these nights when I turn
Out the lights
I'll find you waiting to love me?

One of these nights when
I put out the lights
I'll thank the stars up above me..
