I was talking last night
To a friend who was thinking he might
Risk it all for a moment of lust
And adventure, so I told him

You can live everyday like your last
Pay the price and the moment will past
It's too late and there's no second chance
If it's over, you got nothing

Well I've been there
The grass was just fine on this side
Because I've been there
There's no getting back on that ride
There's no replacing the love you got
You don't have to lose to see what you've lost
Well just be true to your woman

No good living the lie
When it's over the secret won't die
She'll move on to another guy
She won't love you, like your wife

And I've been there
I don't recommend the pain
Because I've been there
Trust me as your friend
There's nothing to gain
There's no replacing the love you got
You don't have to lose to see what you've lost
Oh, just be true to your woman

Many years, working hard, everyone,
Gets tempted by something
They never knew, never had
The fantasy overtakes, over-rides, everything
And you'll get lost in a hollow world

All those years they are worth the lot
You only realise when they've gone
Then just be true
There's no replacing the love you got

You don't have to lose to see what you've lost
Just be true to your woman
