What are you calling me for?
Thought it was over when you walked out the door
Reminding me of the pain that you caused in my heart

No I'm not missing you at all
No I'm not trying to make you feel small
But lately it cuts like a knife
That you think you can walk right back into my life so

You don't have to call
And we don't have a reason to talk
If you want something to say
Then start telling me how you could hurt me that way

'Cause it was hell getting over you
Damn you for what you put me through
The curtain's closed, goodbye, the end
'Cause I don't think my heart will let me love you again

Everything you said was a lie
Right to my face couldn't understand why
And how you could do me that way
Then walk back in my life

But tell me where were you when I couldn't sleep?
And where were you when I couldn't eat?
And where were you when I cried?
There's no way I could let you back into my life so

You don't have to call
And we don't have a reason to talk
If you want something to say
Then start telling me how you could hurt me that way

'Cause it was hell getting over you
Damn you for what you put me through
The curtain's closed goodbye, the end
'Cause I don't think my heart will let me love you again

No we cannot find a way, I don't have nothing to say
Baby, I gotta be real, guess now you know how it feels Why are you wasting my time? Guess I been crossing your mind

Can't let you back in my life, this is goodbye

You don't have to call
We don't have a reason to talk
If you want something to say
Then start telling me how you could hurt me that way

It was hell getting over you
Damn you for what you put me through
The curtain's closed goodbye, the end
'Cause I don't think my heart

You don't have to call
And we don't have a reason to talk
If you want something to say
Then start telling me how you could hurt me that way

'Cause it was hell getting over you
Damn you for what you put me through
The curtain's closed goodbye, the end
'Cause I don't think my heart will let me love you again
