I'm just spraying on the mystery how many others lived a lie like me etched in the stone of fantasy until a coma set me free

I drifted past pain to the pearly gates stopped and had lunch with a blonde named "Faith" told her I just couldn't lift the weight she said "its alright now, its safe..."

CHORUS:

But when the clouds come crashing don't run and hide the rain can only get you wet and lightning never strikes the same place twice keep in mind it hasn't hit you yet..."

So I'm running on luck and running on fumes down a winding road where only trouble blooms my only compass is a bright full moon she told me "the storm is coming soon"

CHORUS
