She see's something in me, that I have never seen.
It compliments my life but I don't know what that means.
And how can you say, you don't want to bother here?
There's too much suspense and not enough outcome.

She has a broken heart,
I haven't seen a heart like that since my old one.
And now is the time to start over,
If her heart will let me, and good thing it's empty.
Cause we need to fit come love in there.

I heard she's taking over, but time can only tell
You can't hold love in a broken heart, and she isn't doing well.

How can you say you don't bother here?
There's too much strees and not enough outcome.

She has a broken heart,
I haven't seen a heart like that since my old one.
And now is the time to start over,
If her heart will let me, and good thing it's empty.
Cause we need to fit come love in there.
