stuck here
so far from home talking but they don't know

can't make sense of the signs i thought i would die till you looked in my eyes

till something changes
it's a different language
it's words say too much and get in the way of me talking the strangest love i never had any where to go nothing

i've been here all alone

no one to show me
no one can hear me baby just tell me

i don't have to know what you're saying i don't have to be afraid no more don't talk no more they aren't the words i want

strangest love
