"Shoreline"

ever since I was eight or nine I've been standing on the shoreline for all my life I've been waiting for something lasting you loose your hunger and you loose your way you get confused and then you fade away

oh this town
kills you when you are young
oh this town

I'm not the boy that I used to be this town has got the youth of me all the eyes turn hollow from the work of sorrow

you die young
you die when you're young
we are shadows
oh were shadows
just shadows in the alley

you're standing on the paving by the office building they've got so much to do never time for you

I've got nothing nothing to wait for
where is life in this town where is life in this town
