

Broken-Hearted Janitors

"Things Get Better"

Visit "Things Get Better" on MotoLyrics.com

He, he had potential
No one ever saw
He had the right moves
To get him way past far
He had the right girl
In his sight
so why is he alone, at home
Tonight?

She, she had her past
Before he came along
She had the right song
To make the night wear on
But she, she loved the wrong man
Always in a fight
So why didn't she end it before
Tonight?

There is no answer
To a question he never asked
There can never be solace
When your soul looks back
They should see they belong together
And when they do
Things will get better, yeah
Things will be better
The whole night through

He, he followed her
Safely far behind
He knew the romance
She desperetly wanted to find
He had an isea, so aure it was right
So why can't he say a word
Tonight?

She, she felt his prescence
When she looked around
She finally noticed him
And it brought her 'round
She had found the right guy

Always in her sight
So why aren't they together, forever
Tonight?

There is no answer
To a question he never asked
There can never be solace
When your soul looks back
They should see they belong together
And when they do
Things will get better, yeah
Things will be better
The whole night through

His life for her
Her love for him
Together like they should've been
When they wake up together again
Will they know what command?
Will they see it to the end?
Well you tell me
I guess we'll see

He got his answer
To the question that she asked
They found solace
As they watch each others back
They thought they belonged together
And now they finally do
Things just got better, yeah
Things just got better
And they'll live this night through
They'll live this night through

Visit Broken-Hearted Janitors page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.