I wish you smiled like him you walked like him and talked like him and love me as good as he did

I try to imagine him living in this game but you're not like him So why do I even compare?

I think about how it was then
and how it was with him and i try to see all those qualities living in you but you're nothing like the man i used to love and you'll never do what he does I'm reluctant to find that the more i try to make you fit in, you'll never be like him you'll never be like him

i wish you kissed like him you felt like him and held like him and touch me the way that he did i try to see his face in your place 'cause i can't erase the way i felt when he was mine

and I'm reluctant to find that the more i try to make you fit in, you'll never be like him there's no chance for romance. there's no way i would stay. i won't always get what i want but I'm not gonna settle for less I'm gonna go my own way

(I'm gonna, I'm gonna go my own way)

and I'm reluctant to find that the more i try to make you
