I'm still not used to me
I don't know who to be
Can't find the missing pieces on my own
Morning with out you
Is like the sky without the blue
I'm staring at a picture torn in two Torn in two

When we were one
I was complete
And now I'm only half the woman
That I used to be
When we were one
I could hold my head up high
Cause you were right there by my side
I was strong
When we were one
When we were one, oh

Your coat is hanging on the door
Right there where it was before
It's all you left behind
You don't wear it any more
Time is growing hard to bear
Moving on but going no where
Still staring at the picture
But you're not there
You're not there

When we were one
I was complete
But now I'm only half the woman
That I used to be
When we were one
I could hold my head up high
Cause you were right there by my side
I was strong

I lost myself to you
I found a life I never knew
Now I've got nothing left to lose
Nothing to hold on to

To hold on to

When we were one
I was complete
But now I'm only half the woman
That I used to be
When we were one
I could hold my head up high
Cause you were right there by my side
I was strong
When we were one
When we were one

When we were one
I could hold my head up high
Cause you right there by my side
I was strong
When we were one
When we were one
