Have you heard the story so colorful and untrue?
A clever concoction so they could make some money off you suckers of the world don't stay too close to the tv screen you might hurt your eyes and realize too late you were a flower just in bloom but you wanted too much too soon you'll built away before the day you should come feel the sun and take your time smell the air and hear the sound it is wonder so profound but why do you listen to a pretty paper doll? you are missing your whole life run to the mountain and feel the ground on your feet and you can say you are alive i thank the one who taught me well maybe you can learn from this cause she flies so high to an amazing state of bliss despite all this time there is so much space to fill up there you know as well as i that we can change
