

Brother's Keeper "Born To Love You"

Visit "Born To Love You" on MotoLyrics.com

Born to love You

In the quiet of the morning
When the grey turns into dawn
When the shadow yields to sunlight
And the chill of night has gone
I will quietly exalt You
For all that You're kind and good
Til my praying turns to praising
And shakes the neighborhood

I was born to love You
Morning to morning
Born to love You
With grace from above
Born to love You
Because of Your glory
Born to love You
I was born to love

When the poor man meets injustice
When the child is all alone
I will stand and not be silent
I will give away my home
I can see You in their faces
I know what I must do
When I wrap my arms around them
I know I'm touching You

I am here to be a picture of Your love
A reflection of Your life

I can see You in their faces
I know what I must do
When I wrap my arms around them
I know I'm touching You

Visit Brother's Keeper page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.