We were two youngs kids
With nothing to do
Just skipping school
Acting like we were cool
But in the end
Finding out we were fools.
Now we had no job
Just a lot of dreams and promisies
And in the end feeling rob
Cause none of it came true.
Oh we were two young kids
With nothing to do
Just skipping school
Thinking we were cool
But in the end just two fools.
Now many days
Into many nights
Where still thinking about
Finding new ways to get out
And maping out new roads we can take.
Oh we were two young kids
With nothing to do
And skipping school
Trying to be cool
But we were just fools
Believing our dreams
And promisies
But in the end feeling rob
Cause none of it was true.
Now my baby and I sing the blues
Thinking we could win but in the end
Finding out we lost again.
Oh were just two young kids
With nothing to do
Skipping school, being cool
But really two fools, really two fools,
With nowhere to go.
