

Bruce Martone

"If My World Should"

Visit "If My World Should" on MotoLyrics.com

If my world should happen to crumble
Along with my dreams that lay on the ground
Would you come to comfort me helping me
Lose my frown...
And if I was told that my life was ending
With no cure in sight,
Would you hold me and stay the night...
And if I couldn't see the beauty of god grace
Would you be my guide
Taking me through his place
And staying at my side...
Oh if my world should happen to crumble
Along with my dreams that lay on the ground
Would you come to comfort me helping me lose my frown...
And if I should fall behind losing your hand
Would you stop and turn around
Giving me a chance to come back round
And if I should say that I don't have a lot
Would you remind me of what I still got...
Oh if my world should crumble to the sea
Along with my dreams that lay on the ground
Would you come to comfort me helping me lose my
frown
And if I should sing and old song
Would you listen so you could sing along
And if I should say please won't you stay
Would you just keep walking away or would you stay...
And if I should start to cry would you catch my tears
Or would you just say goodbye leaving me here...
Oh if mt world should crumble to the sea
Along with my dreams that lay on the ground
Would you come to comfort me helping me lose my frown...
And if I should start to mumble knowing my life has crumble
Down to the sea...
Would that end you and me
And if it's yes than your be releive
That there won't be no more if I should from me...

