(Spoken:) One, two, three, hit it boy, oh oh

May I take your order? Bourbon rocks, splash of water, Comin' right up, comin' right up.

All alone? Don't be nervous, Bruno's here baby, I'm at Your service

Tending your cup, sit down, belly up.

Ask for anything and I'll say "yup! comin' right up",
I'll be right with you.

Need a match? On the double, sulphur preparation,
That's no trouble

Comin' right up! I got that comin' right up

What's that? Am I free later? Let me put it this way:

Does a comet leave a crater?

I'll check my book-my, my, what luck, a bottle of our Best champagne comin' right up

We toasted everything, that's worth imagining, she told Me stories that would melt a stone

I managed to just keep a hold of myself, she blew a

Little kiss, so shy and sensuous

Then disappeared into the night alone, she left a map
On a ten-dollar bill

Underneath her glass in a vodka spill. Oh!

Midnight I pushed the buzzer guessed right cause it was

Her

Ninety-ninth floor: "Baby, It's Bruno I'll be right up"

Uh uh! Nice lobby. Sixty nine, seventy nine, eighty

Nine, oh here we are: ninety nine.

I knock, I take a look in high heels, dinner cookin',

"Yes, thank you make mine a Manhattan bone dry, don't

Forget that little cherry on top!"

Comin' right, comin' right up.

(Spoken:) This is delicious, you made it yourself, uh?

Mmm, yeah, come here,

Let me fix that seem in the back of your stocking,

Baby...
