

Bryan Rice

"Fragile"

Visit "Fragile" on MotoLyrics.com

No one wants to be the first to let someone else inside
It takes some getting, getting used to, having nowhere to hide
Easier to run than to stay and love someone.

You think that your walls are invincible.
You think you're too tall to be climbed.
You got to accept that you're breakable 'cause we are fragile.

Who'd have thought it would be so hard to keep an open mind?
We have our shortest conversations, when you're convinced you're right.
If you want to be strong, why don't you stay and prove me wrong?

You think that your walls are invincible.
You think you're too tall to be climbed.
You got to accept that you're breakable and we're all
fragile.

And if you're so immune to being fragile, why be here
with me?
I'm just as fragile as God intended me to be...
And I know how hard it is...

When you think that your walls are invincible.
You think you're too tall to be climbed.
You got to accept that you're breakable and we're all
fragile.
You think that your walls are invincible.
You think you're too tall to be climbed.
You got to accept that you're breakable and we're all
fragile.

Visit Bryan Rice page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.