-LESSON NUMBER ONE-

Three Little Boys in a wishing well
Are secretly gathering wishes to sell
While our Bobby's asleep
He dreams of his cent in the deep
"Wish I may and wish I might, wish upon a splash Turn all the people who touch it to ash!"

-MORAL-

Don't be a thief, my little dandelion

These are the lessons I learned, the lessons I learned

-LESSON NUMBER TWO-

With side to side desks in an English class
Side to side students are certain to pass
But our Mrs. Leni, catches a wandering eye
In a flash, an empty desk, and smoke fills the sky
Everyone wonders how she made her pies!

-MORAL-

Don't cheat or lie, my little Avalon

These are the lessons I learned, the lessons I learned

All of those lonely nights mother would rock me to sleep
Smoking a cigarette, crossing her legs in the corner, dark and deep

-LESSONS NUMBER THREE-

Grandmother stands at the side of the street
Opposite Alex can't wait for a treat
But our Bicycle Fleet cuts round the corner to meet
Granny and it takes her apart in a snap
All that remains is her daffodil hat

-MORAL-

Look every way, before you cross the street

These are the lessons I learned, the lessons I learned
