You know I wonder where I'd be if not for you I'd still be wandering through this world without a clue
At night I wake up and look across the bed And you'd never dream the crazy things running through my head

I can't imagine,
my journey through this world without you
not loving everything about you I've searched my heart and soul
how could there ever be a greater love than ours?
I can't imagine..

I want to wrap you like a present in my arms Give you to myself and keep you safe from harm
My every moment devoted to your kiss I don't even want to think about surviving without you there

I can't imagine,
my journey through this world without you
not loving everything about you
I've searched my heart and soul
how could there ever be a greater love than ours?
I can't imagine,
sharing my life with any other not making love to you
I can't imagine..
I've searched my heart and soul
how could there ever be a greater love than ours?
Let me tempt you and deliver let me make you feel the ocean roar I'll make your blood run like the river how could a man feel better than this or ever love you more?

I can't imagine,
my journey through this world without you
not loving everything about you
I've searched my heart and soul
how could there ever be a greater love than ours?
I can't imagine..
