Built On Secrets
"Canvases"

Visit "Canvases" on MotoLyrics.com

Lost it's way so high
Knocked from the night sky

She fell to the earth to rise
'Come back home' the night sang
The night sang, 'Come back home'

Alone in the mist (alone in the mist)
Lit by her glow
She found her way in the snow
A voice whispered just 'let go'

To follow me into the sea
Through forests and trails
Through hills and through gales
The Babylon
Outward it shone
There's a new life (there's a new life)
And I can't think twice (and I can't think twice)
And nothing else
Can seem to tell fact from fiction (fiction)
I can't seem to Break away

Draw your eyes to the canvas skies
The setting sun should not glow upon (not glow upon)
The seeds that we sow
Draw your eyes to the canvas skies
The setting sun should not glow upon (not glow upon)
The seeds that we sow

Never the one to know
Never the one to know

She seems to follow the straightest line
So place it between the deepest divide

This beauty that's surrounding me
Your convalescent light will see
It's keeping me warm at night

Though won't you shine so bright

Shine so bright for me
For I am struggling
Struggling to see

Now you're shining so bright
Now you're shining so

Draw your eyes to the canvas skies
The setting sun should not glow upon (not glow upon)
The seeds that we sow
Draw your eyes to the canvas skies
The setting sun should not glow upon (not glow upon)
The seeds that we sow

Impending within our nature to Reserve the right
To hold on to

The Moon had said (the Moon had said)
Come back to bed (come back to bed)
Amongst the stars (amongst the stars)
A journey not so far
The Moon has said
Come back to bed
Amongst the stars
A journey not so far

I seek a star
That fell not far
I seek a star
That fell not far
I seek a star (I)
That fell not far (Seek)
I seek a star (A)
That fell not far (Star)
From here