I walk this path
Now I know what I've always been looking for
I am held, by no more chains
By no more anchors

I've left routines from the past ashore

Once again, the tides arise
They wash against what I've fought for my whole life
Once again, the tides arise
And they subside, leaving nothing behind

Everything has changed
From what it used to be
And time only moves forward

Now, I'm right here
I've taken hold of this life
Although it might not be mine
I swear that I'll leave something behind

I'm right here
I've taken hold of this life
Although it might not be mine
I swear that I'll leave something behind
I'm right here
You've given me hold of this life
It might not be mine, but I still swear I'll leave something behind

I swear you'll remember me
I'll become everything this life can be
I swear you'll remember me
I've left the ocean and aimed towards the skies

Time only moves forward and it does not carry me with it
I am the one pushing it and I am not alone
I am not alone
