

Burning Airlines

"The City Ignites"

Visit "The City Ignites" on MotoLyrics.com

It's a midnight swim, where it is late and
The air is all clear.
And I remember that evening, you on the floor,
I was attached to the ceiling.
Look behind, that glass in your mouth,
It's what I am due for.
The sun will set tonight on all the lonely dreamers,
Only to rise again so we can start it over.
And you were right when you whispered in my ear and it all became so clear.
It's gonna be alright, everything will be alright
Even if the city ignites.
Look behind, that glass in your mouth,
It's what I am due for.
The sun will set tonight on all the lonely dreamers,
only to rise again so we can start it over,
Start it again
Now to get back to the room where there's Windows as large as the city
The sun will set tonight on all the lonely dreamers,
only to rise again so we can start it over,
Start it again

Visit Burning Airlines page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.