My chance my live has broken
My fault my thoughts are left unspoken
My chance my live has broken
My fault my thoughts are left unspoken
My fault my thoughts are left unspoken

When the trumpets sound for the last time
The freedom of speech has never been mine
And the devil finds work for idle hands
In life we have to use this one chance

Do you really want to disappear in silence?
Do you really want to disappear in silence?

You need to say what's need to be said for you
Use your chance
You need to say what's need to be said for you
Use your chance
You need to say what's need to be said for you
You need to say what's need to be said for you
Use your chance

Use the power of speech with might and main
Voiceless or cowardly it's never the same
Just a single thought left unspoken
'Cause the dawn of the end has broken

Do you really want to disappear in silence?
Do you really want to disappear in silence?

Surrender without a single word
Says more about us then we got to say
Buried in oblivion in this world
Surrender without a single word
Says more about us then we got to say
Buried in oblivion in this world

With being speechless every day
Write with your fingertips here's the apocalypse

My chance my live has broken
