Don't wanna tell the story again anyone who's everyone already knows what happened sorry shit worked out this way was the only thing that anybody really could say when she walked in the line is thin between sad and funny and i can only really speak for me but i didn't see no one laughing you can think of all the things you'd do different nothings gonna change the fact that you didn't nothings gonna change nothing

And if it sounds stupid to say that all the world needs is a little more love then how come it's so hard to figure out? how come it's so hard to figure out?

you can scream and you can yell you can bitch about the cards your dealt but you'll feel it till the feeling's felt cuz everything's been built on guesses no guarantees of what the next is time never pushes, it only presses

And no one talked the whole way home everybody just stared at the road and i rolled down my window and leaned out leaned out and watched the lights
