In how many ways can I still prove that I love you
In spite of all the crazy tests that you have put me through
How else am I to show you that I forgive you
For countless indiscretions performed in style by you

How many times you hope that I would ignore it When you commit another crime and kick my love to death
Now I see that things will have to change, right now
Oh, things will have to change around here

How often do I have to say, not to worry When you do something stupid, simply just because you're vain
How soon do you think, will come the time when you're sorry
And you'll be crying after someone who knew you well

I still believe although I'm losing my patience Oh please, don't shout 'cause if you mean it you can whisper too
Now I see that things will have to, things will have to change right now
Oh, things will have to change around here

What happened to your grand designs
What happened to, "The first in line"
What happened to, "We'll show them how"
What happened to, "We'll lead the crowd"

I must, I have to remind you
I must, I have to remind you
I must, I have to remind you
It's not too late to fix your life

What happened to your grand designs
What happened to, "The first in line"
What happened to, "We'll show them how"
What happened to, "We'll lead the crowd"

I must, I have to remind you

I must, I have to remind you
I must, I have to remind you
It's not too late, there's still time

In how many ways can I still prove that I love you
In spite of all the crazy tests that you have put me
through
How else am I to show you that I forgive you
For countless indiscretions performed in style by you

When you commit another crime and kick my love to
death
Now I see that things will have to change, right now
Oh, things will have to change around here

Oh, I must, I must, I must remind you

Oh, I still believe although I'm losing my patience
Oh please, don't shout, oh please, don't shout
It's not too late, we have time

When you do something stupid, when you do something stupid
Oh, I must, I must, I must remind you
Oh, and you'll be crying after someone who knew you well

I still believe although I'm losing my patience
Oh please, don't shout 'cause if you mean it you can
whisper too
change right now
Oh, things will have to change around here
