

Basia "Someone for Everyone"

Visit "Someone for Everyone" on MotoLyrics.com

There is always someone there for everyone
You might not believe it now but give it time
Then say it clearly, say it straight
Forget you know this language well
You cannot hide away from love though you can run

This could be a revolution
This could be love's resurrection

One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens

There is someone there for you who doesn't mind
One who knows the past is better left behind
Dreams, enormous dreams
And one who dares enough to live again
'Cause trying hard and falling down is not a crime

This could be revolution
This could be love's resurrection

One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens

When one door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens

There's someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone

One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens
For everyone

There's always someone there for everyone
You don't believe it now but give it time
Say it clearly, say it straight
Forget you know this language well
You cannot hide away from love though you can run

One door shuts, another opens
One door shuts, another opens

Someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone
There's someone there for everyone

There's someone there
There's someone there
