This is the tale of a girl
How her love consumed my world
And how it all played out
It's on and out

We got a strange shooter with the best intentions
A little off target
But life's a lesson
And no one's claiming to be perfect

We fell in love one summer night
Made out until the sunrise
And I'm just praying there's tomorrow
And if my fingertips, they've misconstrued
Along the way...

I'm sorry
I know I'm set with imperfections
Compelled by love and it's direction
So you know girl
One day, I'll break out of this small town
Just say the words
I'll turn this car around
And drive until it breaks down...

Listen close
I hope you get the message through
Six months of lesson
You're my only one
And we've just begun
Every Sunday night we would Fight to make this right
Can you come over now?
Let's sort this out
I tried to make the best of this
For as long as I could give the best of me
I guess in time we'll see

I'm sorry
I know I'm set with imperfections
Compelled by love and it's direction
So you know girl

One day, I'll break out of this small town
Just say the words
I'll turn this car around
And drive until it breaks down

The most absurdly of thieves coupled with honorable intentions
Aim to sweep you off your feet
Into a better free invention
Something much more fitting of these times

So when the ocean brings it's wrath
Until we all intend to drown
Our Friday nights and blanket, inside
So covered we are bound
And I still smell you in my clothes
Feel your fingers in my hair
Oh after this song's over I'll still need you here...
