The faintest spark in your eye
Lets me know every time he's in your room

So say what you really wanna say
I already know what I really wanna know

If all we have is what we take for granted
Oh you know I just can't stand to listen
To your mindless preaching and your excuses,
Oh your excuses

Lets talk this over

The faintest spark in your eye
Lets me know every time he's in your room
And the smile that runs across your lips
Lets me know what's goin down
I know what's goin down

So say what you really wanna say
I already know what I really wanna know
I'm through waiting and anticipating
When you're only looking for an exit

If all we have is what we take for granted
Oh you know I just can't stand to listen
To your mindless preaching and your excuses,
Oh your excuses

Lets talk this over

The faintest spark in your eye
Lets me know every time he's in your room
And the smile that runs across your lips
Lets me know what's goin down
I know what's goin down

It's not quite what you say
But the way you say it

If all we have is what we take for granted
Oh you know I just can't stand to listen

To your mindless preaching and your excuses,
Oh your excuses

Lets talk this over

The faintest spark in your eye
Lets me know every time he's in your room
And the smile that runs across your lips
Lets me know what's goin down
I know what's goin down
