

The Bates "Running Forward"

too many things are left to nowhere.
too many tears are cried for this.
time doesn't stop (is) just running forward
the things I miss
I do remember all the old times.
the times of laughter and of pain.
these things are gone but all the memories
do still remain.
better face the situation
time's too short to run and hide.
better know where you have to go:
running forward all the time.
sometimes in hopeless situations
when everything around goes wrong it seems: there's nothing to believe in.
you're to be strong
nobody's born to be a loser.
every human being everywhere
life can be hard life can be easy never care
