Separated from night
You spoke and then there was light
They point to You

Divided water from land
Bowing to Your command
They point to You

The sun that's blazing at noon
And every phase of the moon
They point to You.

A baby's cry and the way
A sunset closes the day
They point to You.

For You're the only One worth praising
More radiant than earth and sky
And everyday that I survey Your creation
I see why I see why
God of everything I see,
Come create again in me
You were yesterday
And You will always be
So take each breath that I breathe
And be the life that I bleed
Create again in me

The storm that's raging at sea
The little child on her knees
They point to You

Your grace that's poured out on me
The sacrifice on a tree
They point to You

Your Word vaults across the sky
From sunrise to sunset
Melting the ice, scorching the desert
Warm our hearts to faith
(Create again in me)
