She's sleeping on the couch while the tv is on and loud the background is the moon a step closer to him

all the troubles she has fade away she is moving in the air to the sky he's waiting for a chance in the melancholy sea

a step closer to her he'll try to keep away the pain of truth now they are more than lovers tuned over time far from downtown he can't avoid her one kiss, a smile and nothing else to remind this moment the speed of sound to catch this second now they're moving and leaving all behind cause the sun is rising and now that loneliness is back it's time to wake up and to say goodbye
