To wake up with Kim again
She's as beautiful as I remember
Spying on me through her long brown hair
Walking beside me without her wheelchair
Somehow I think she returns
To show there's nothing to fear anymore
But I cannot sleep cause I'm worried about her
The painkillers clouded the angels around her

There are times that I barely get by
Well I hope that you understand
There are times all I can do is cry
Well I hope that you understand
I know that you understand

To wake up Audrey again
She says Michael just try and remember
Things about Kim besides all of her suffering
Like the sound of her laughter or how deeply she loved you
Somehow I think she came along
To show there's nothing to fear anymore, but Already I'm miles away in my head
The painkillers clouding the angels around me
