moonchild

On the night she born the lightning flashed and the thunder roar

But when they heard her cry -the clouds rolled back and the full moon fill the sky

Shinin' down in her eye

Can you hear her cry

Moon child

She always look so pale

The things she wear and the long white veil

She wrapped it up so tight -your mind come loose and you drift on out of sight

She's a child of the night

Can you hear her cry

Moon child

....too high (she always tries to hide?)

The way she feel s on the darker side

She like to fall in love every time there's a full moon up above

Then she's out of this world

She's another girl

And it makes her cry

I love to hear her cry

Moon Child
