What if I break everything that you had dared to take?
And crush you with a grip so tight,
I might be locked away
For all my life?

I say goodbye
To the nights outside with Pittsburgh skies
And I beg, hide your smile
Could it hurt me to be sane for a while?

What if I fall victim to your trap once and for all?
The way you sculpt your dreams you'd think I like to crawl
And if you catch me you'd love me, typically
But I want to beg you, beg you to just get rid of me

I say goodbye
To the nights outside with Pittsburgh skies
And I beg, hide your smile
Could it hurt me to be sane for a while?

The promises you make to break
Are getting old, and I can't take Another day with hazel eyes
Lying to my face
