Who left the lights on?
Who told the children about, things they shouldn't know?
Everybody knows
Now that they have gone away
Up today, oh but its not for me

I'd love to see you
You put me underneath you
When you sing a song
Bring your sack along
Maybe if this ties around
Up the ground, oh but its not for me
Living on the other side

Hide, run away
I'm walking in stride

I don't believe it
Truly great to see it
And the other way
Coming out in may
Maybe when the air's dry
Close your eyes
Oh, but it's not for me
Living on the other side

Hide, run away
I'm walking in stride

And I sometimes feel better without you there
You know I'd never, never leave your back against the wall
Never leave your back against the wall

Who let the light out, who told the children about Things they shouldn't know
Everybody knows
Now that they have gone away
Up today, oh but it's not for me
Living on the other side

Hide, run away
I'm walking in stride
