I will never remind you it's time to leave.
That would mean less time for me to breath.
And I will never try and touch you first.
I don't want any chance that you could get my curse.

So if you must go,
And by that I mean if you must fly away.
And if you must leave,
And by that I mean if I must wake up from my sleep.
How will I know, I wasn't dreaming of heaven?

I know that you can't hear me anymore.
There's too many walls, there's too many doors.
But as you walk away won't you think of me?
Remember us, how we used to be yeah.

And I know you must go,
And by that I mean you must fly away.
And I know you must leave,
And by that I mean that I will wake up from my sleep.
And I'll know I've been to heaven.
